CHEAPER BY THE DOZEN TONS--Mid-City Baptist Church, New Orleans, served its latest and largest of four jawbreaker cakes to commemorate 18th anniversary of pastorate of J. Paul Driscoll (shown with cake). The 12-ton goody shows high school and book store operated by 2700-member church. Estimated to have cost $1 per pound if bought commercially, cake contained over 4300 pounds of sugar (for example), required architect's consultation, was baked by members, eaten at Sunday service.
