Ohio Baptists Ask SBC Aid
For Ghetto Rioting Victims

302

COLUMBUS, Ohio (BP)--The Executive Board of the State Convention of Baptists in Ohio has voted to ask the Southern Baptist Convention to establish a fund to aid the victims of riots in the ghettos following the assassination of Martin Luther King.

The action came on the request of Charles A. Jolly, pastor in Pittsburg, Pa., one of the more than 100 cities across the nation where rioting erupted after King's death.

Jolly urged Baptists to "do something constructive and Christian besides talk and resolutions", which don't help the victims of riot-torn ghettos.

The Ohio Baptist board voted to request the "proper convention agencies" in the SBC to promote a fund-raising effort throughout the Southern Baptist Convention for the benefit of riot victims.

Jolly, who is also a member of the convention's Home Mission Board, said he hoped that the aid would be comparable to the convention-sponsored world relief offering made following World War II when Southern Baptists gave millions for relief of the war-stricken people of Europe and the Orient.

In other action, the board approved employment of John Pate, assistant to the business manager at Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth, as business manager for the Ohio Convention.

A native of Indiana, Pate was for 12 years with the Whirlpool Corp., in Evansville, Ind., and joined the seminary staff in 1965 while studying for the bachelor of divinity degree and serving as student pastor in Greenville, Tex. He assumes the position April 1, succeeding Mrs. Joan Barrett who recently resigned after five years.

In other actions, the board voted to look with favor upon enlarging the ministry of the Ohio Baptist Messenger, asking that a report be presented in July on the feasibility of making the paper available to every Baptist home in the state.

The board also voted to discontinue the annual state Training Union Convention, and conduct regional Training Union conventions instead.

ATLANTA (BP)--Robert C. Fling, a former pastor in a small Texas town, has been appointed pastor-director of mission work in Westchester County, N.Y., a Project 500 target area that boasts of the highest per capita income in the United States.

He will have a unique assistant in his wife, Helen, who for five years has been president of the Womans Missionary Union of the Southern Baptist Convention.

Mrs. Fling describes herself and her husband as "victims of our own speaking and writing of our growing concern for pioneer missions in this day of urbanization."

The only Southern Baptist church in an area populated with about 800,000, the six-months-old church has about 50 members meeting in a rented stone building which once was an Episcopal church.

"We expect this to be one of our most interesting and most productive situations," said Wendell Belew, secretary of the SBC Home Mission Board's department of Pioneer missions.

He added that Fling "will be especially equipped to lead in this mission situation. He is experienced in the pastorate, has exceptional creative abilities and is willing to attempt new approaches in reaching people."

Before serving at Cleburne, Fling had been pastor of First Baptist Church in Seminole, Okla., and of three other Texas Churches.

He is a graduate of Baylor University in Waco, Texas, and of Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth.

Also a Baylor graduate, Mrs. Fling served six years as recording secretary of the convention-wide WMU before becoming its president.

Southern Baptist Student Work
Program Priorities Established

304

480

April 16, 1968

CALLAWAY GARDENS, Ga. (BP)--Priorities and approaches for the Southern Baptist Convention program of student work during the next 18 months were discussed April 8-10 at a meeting of state student secretaries with personnel of the student department of the Sunday School Board.

W. O. Thomason, acting director of the student department, moderated the discussions, which were held at a motel here.

The two groups agreed unanimously on five areas that demand immediate priority consideration in the student department of the Sunday School Board:

(1) Campus evangelism, (2) Work with international students, (3) Creation of new literature and other resource material, (4) Pre-college orientation, and (5) Special support of student work in new convention territories.

In order to meet the first two of these priorities, Thomason announced the readiness of the student department to employ a full time staff member in each specialty as soon as the persons can be enlisted.

"Questions have been raised," stated Thomason, "about the status of student work during the period of study by a committee of the SBC Executive Committee. Because of the rapidly increasing opportunities and challenges of college campuses, we are committed during the period to support with greater vigor than ever before our ministries for students."

Reaction from the state directors was expressed by W. F. Howard, director of the division of student work of the Baptist General Convention of Texas and president of the state directors group.

"The concern of the men with responsibility for student work in the states," said Howard, "is that they be prepared to take advantage of the opportunities in student ministry throughout our convention territory. Unparalleled challenges are before us in the number of students, the new techniques in the work, and the ever changing conditions in the world of higher education today.

"We appreciate being involved in shaping the organization and services of our SBC student department to make it the flexible and adaptable instrument it must be in order to administer a basic program with a variety of applications."

During the meeting, Albert McClellan, program planning secretary of the SBC Executive Committee, presented the outline of the study which was authorized by the Executive Committee in February.

Many of the workers at the meeting expressed the hope that the results of the study will be the birth of a new dynamic thrust in Baptist student work.

"It has been from the first," said Howard, "the hope of the state student secretaries that such a study would demonstrate conclusively to Southern Baptists that a creative approach to student work based on a recognition of a changed campus picture would be designed. The structure for the study indicates that this is a real possibility."

Together, Howard and Thomason issued a challenge to Southern Baptists, "That we open our eyes and become sensitive to the tremendous opportunity that is before us in ministry to students, and that we open our hearts and minds to successfully meeting this challenge."
