Consultants Employed
By Louisiana Board

ALEXANDRIA, La.--(BP)--Booz, Allen, and Hamilton, management consultants of Chicago, have begun a survey of the Louisiana Baptist Convention.

The survey will last about four months, the firm said. The firm will study the organization, administration, and programs of the Louisiana Convention and present recommendations concerning their future set up.

Louisiana is the first state Baptist convention to undertake a survey of its work. Texas Baptists have such a survey under consideration but have not undertaken it yet.

Booz, Allen, and Hamilton has conducted surveys already for a number of Southern Baptist Convention organizations--the Baptist Sunday School Board, the Woman's Missionary Union, and Southern Baptist Seminary.

The firm also was asked to work with the Committee to Survey the Total Southern Baptist Convention Program. The recommendations from this study will be made to the 1959 session of the Southern Baptist Convention at Houston.
